

百戏

Na Bai Xi

Introduction

"Na" symbolizes the inclusiveness and heritage of traditional culture, while "Bai Xi," inspired by ancient tea-whisking art, transcends its origins to embrace the beauty of life and various arts. Na Bai Xi is more than a tea shop; it's a window into Chinese traditional culture, blending tea-whisking art into modern beverages and expanding "Bai Xi" to reflect the world's diversity. It aims to create a cultural and social space infused with Chinese-style milk tea charm.

① On the third day of the Lunar New Year, the streets buzzed with anticipation as the emperor was rumored to join the festivities at a local inn. Dressed in a cyan robe, you sat by the teahouse window, thoughtfully examining a rabbit lantern as the vibrant night unfolded.

② Inside the teahouse, a large revolving lantern adorned with ancient legends cast enchanting shadows, captivating guests who were both immersed in a tea-tasting competition and mesmerized by its artistry. As the competition neared its end, a waiter presented two cups of tea, inviting, "Please have a taste."

③ Nearby, a crowd gathered around a Nanzhao merchant's shop, buzzing with anticipation. A performer ascended a towering knife-ladder with unwavering focus, each step deliberate, and then braved a sea of fire, emerging unscathed to thunderous applause before bowing and retreating.

The noisy crowd dispersed, and the previous hustle and bustle slowly faded into a calm stillness.

⑤ The iron-flower-hitting master expertly flung molten iron against the sky, unleashing a breathtaking cascade of sparks like a thousand shooting stars. Amid the fiery rain, dancers with intricately painted faces performed the charcoal-flower dance.

④ On a night meant for marvels, the stillness broke as lively singing echoed through the streets, heralding a wave of dazzling flower lanterns. A dragon dance troupe glided ahead, its undulating form moving with mesmerizing grace, while children spun glowing lamps and fish-shaped lanterns bobbed like luminous sea creatures, rekindling the night's magic.

Storyboard

Based on this story,
I created this work.....

Inspiration

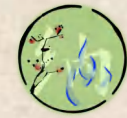

Some time ago, I felt particularly tired, so I wanted to find a relaxing, elegant environment to relax, but there was no result.

One day, by chance, I had the opportunity to deeply understand the aesthetics of the Song Dynasty and the tea opera culture of that era. I have long loved the charm and aesthetics of ancient China, and hope to revive these fading cultures. This is not only the inheritance of memories, but also conveys an inclusive attitude towards everything in life. In the busy city life, establish a place where your soul can temporarily rest and build a gentleman's friendship.

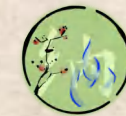

Summary

In order to integrate all inspiration, this is my explanations to extract practical ideas.

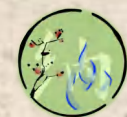

Modernize

The process of water painting in tea opera is used in the operation mode of tea ordering machine to draw patterns more quickly and accurately.

Immersive experience

Putting the flower and charcoal dance immersive experience indoors not only ensures the safety of viewers, but also restores the immersive experience of intangible cultural heritage as much as possible. It will be added to the place of tea opera culture to increase the experience of viewers.

Business Development

As a modern place that integrates friends, leisure and entertainment, it needs a matching online booking and ordering system to imperceptibly pass the brand concept to consumers.

Competitive Product Analysis

Brand	Strengths	Weaknesses	Opportunities	Threats
	Unique image, diverse products, wide reach, strong marketing, attracts youth.	Limited innovation, mid-low positioning, and inconsistent franchise quality hinder competitiveness.	Growing tea market, expand online sales, develop healthy products for trends.	Fierce competition, material cost shifts, high safety demands risk trust.
	Focuses on Chinese tea, quality, craftsmanship, strong western market presence.	Limited national presence, lower brand awareness, and higher prices narrow customer reach.	Rising Chinese trend, expand markets via culture, integrate with tourism.	Rivals copy culture, taste varies by region, high promo costs slow growth.
	Unique Chinese style, premium teas, flagship stores, rapid global expansion.	High prices, supply chain challenges, and intense competition limit market reach.	Global tea culture rise, partner with IPs, adapt products for regions.	Global instability, cultural gaps, and fierce competition hinder expansion.

Persona

Interests

- Visit museums
- Take photos
- Listen to Chinese songs
- Read cross-cultural literature

Ariana

23 / ♀ / Undergraduate

Chengdu, CN

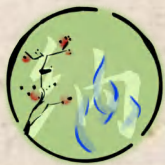

I love drinking rich and creamy milk tea that tastes fresh and natural, with a perfect balance of tea aroma and milk fragrance. If the milk tea also offers low-sugar and low-calorie options, it completely meets my pursuit of healthy beverages. I enjoy going to milk tea shops with friends to chat and take photos.

Touch Points

Process Analysis

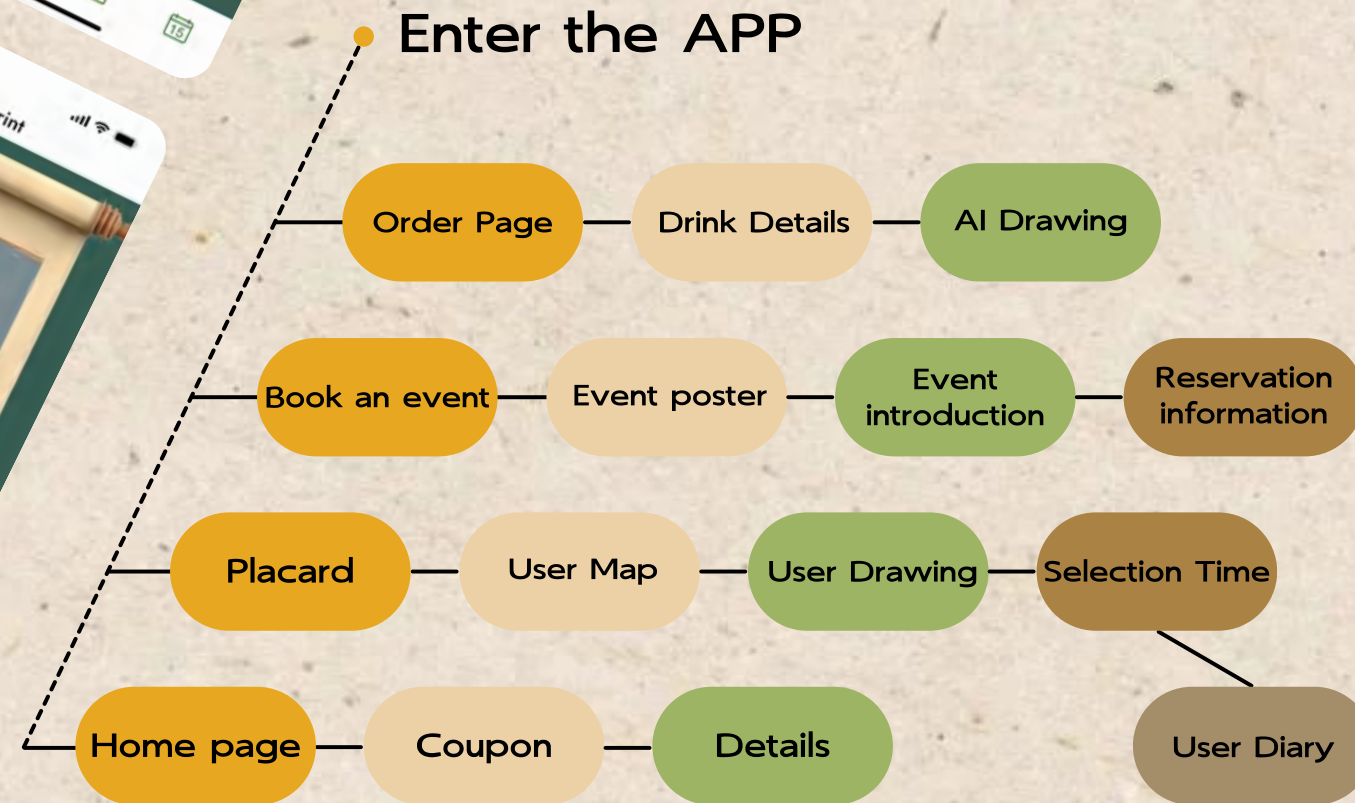

Service Blueprint

Stage	Arrive at milk tea shop		Order a milk tea		Experience the drink
Customer journey	Select the milk tea shop and corresponding APP	Ask and choose a drink	Buy drinks	Customer makes drinks	Drink milk tea	Use milk tea packaging for creative production
Frontstage actions	Introduce drinks		Pay for the milk tea		Courier delivers drinks	Provide making tips
Backstage actions	Provide the address of milk tea shop	Closing system	Shop assistant makes drinks	Shop assistant packages drink		Keep the store clean
Support processes	Planning site layout	Buy ingredients for drinks and packaging	Checkout technical support	Select raw Material Supplier	Support of intangible cultural heritage production technology

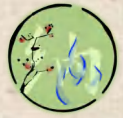

APP Page Design

Work Flow Chart

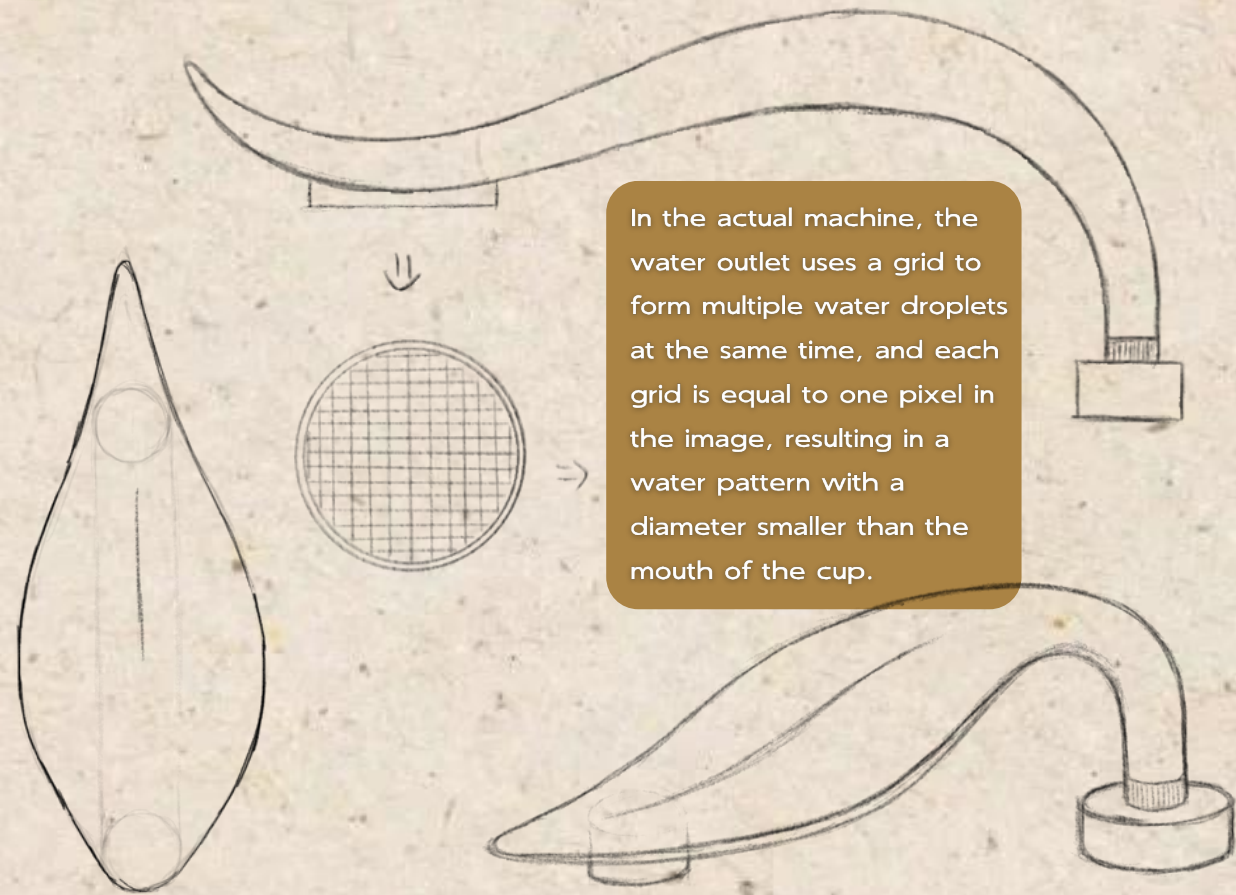

High Fidelity

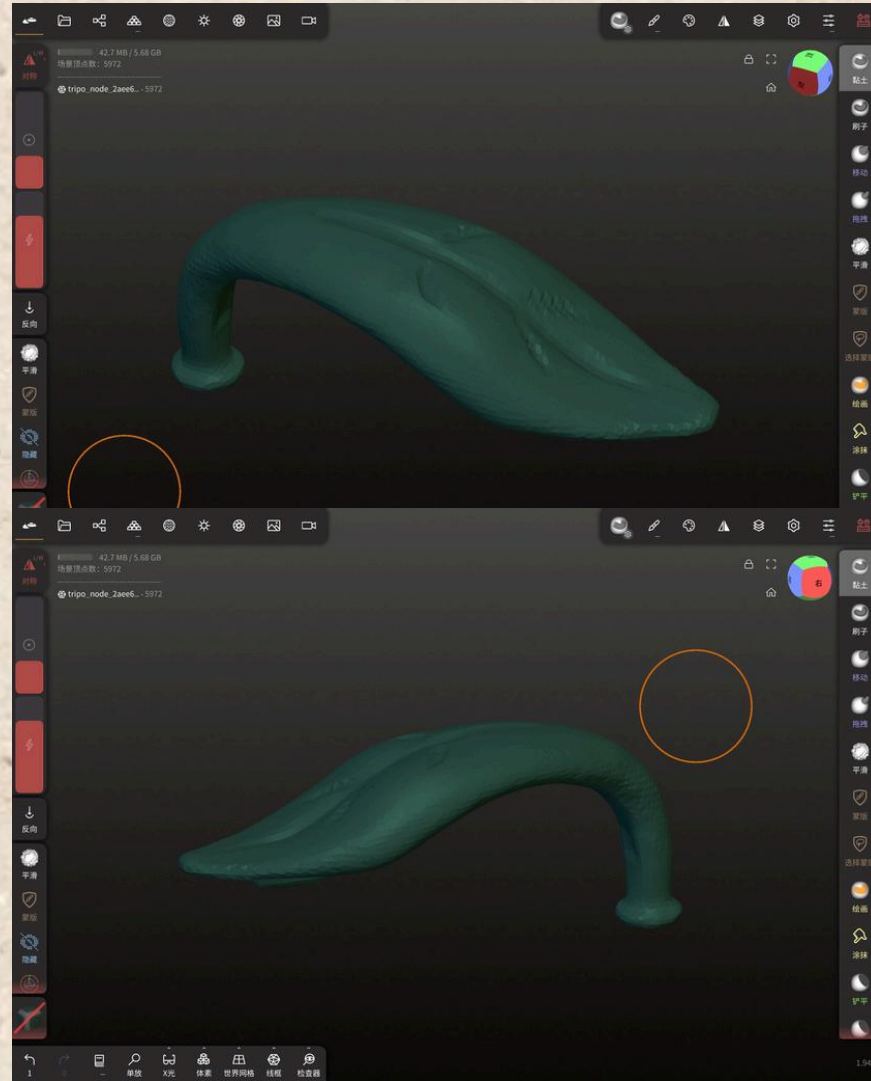

Machine Design

In the actual machine, the water outlet uses a grid to form multiple water droplets at the same time, and each grid is equal to one pixel in the image, resulting in a water pattern with a diameter smaller than the mouth of the cup.

Principle of Pattern Formation

Only when the tea soup forms a stable suspension can it have the basis for magically transforming into patterns. During the process of whisking tea, through whisking and stirring, the components in the tea leaves will form a homogeneous suspension with water. The operator then pours clear water into the tea soup, creating patterns of tea - soup lines and water veins.

Process Flow

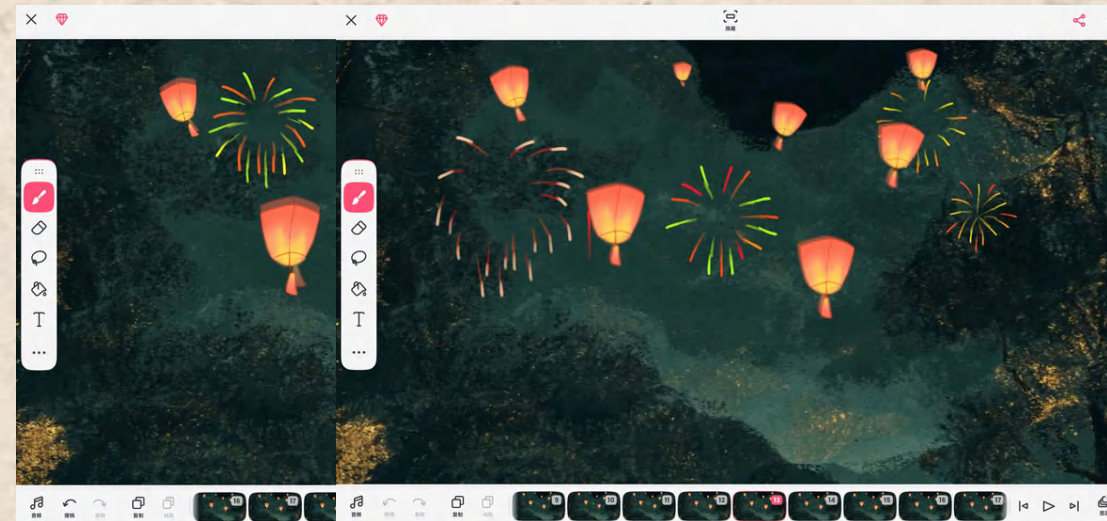

Immersive Experience Design

Touch Designer Flow

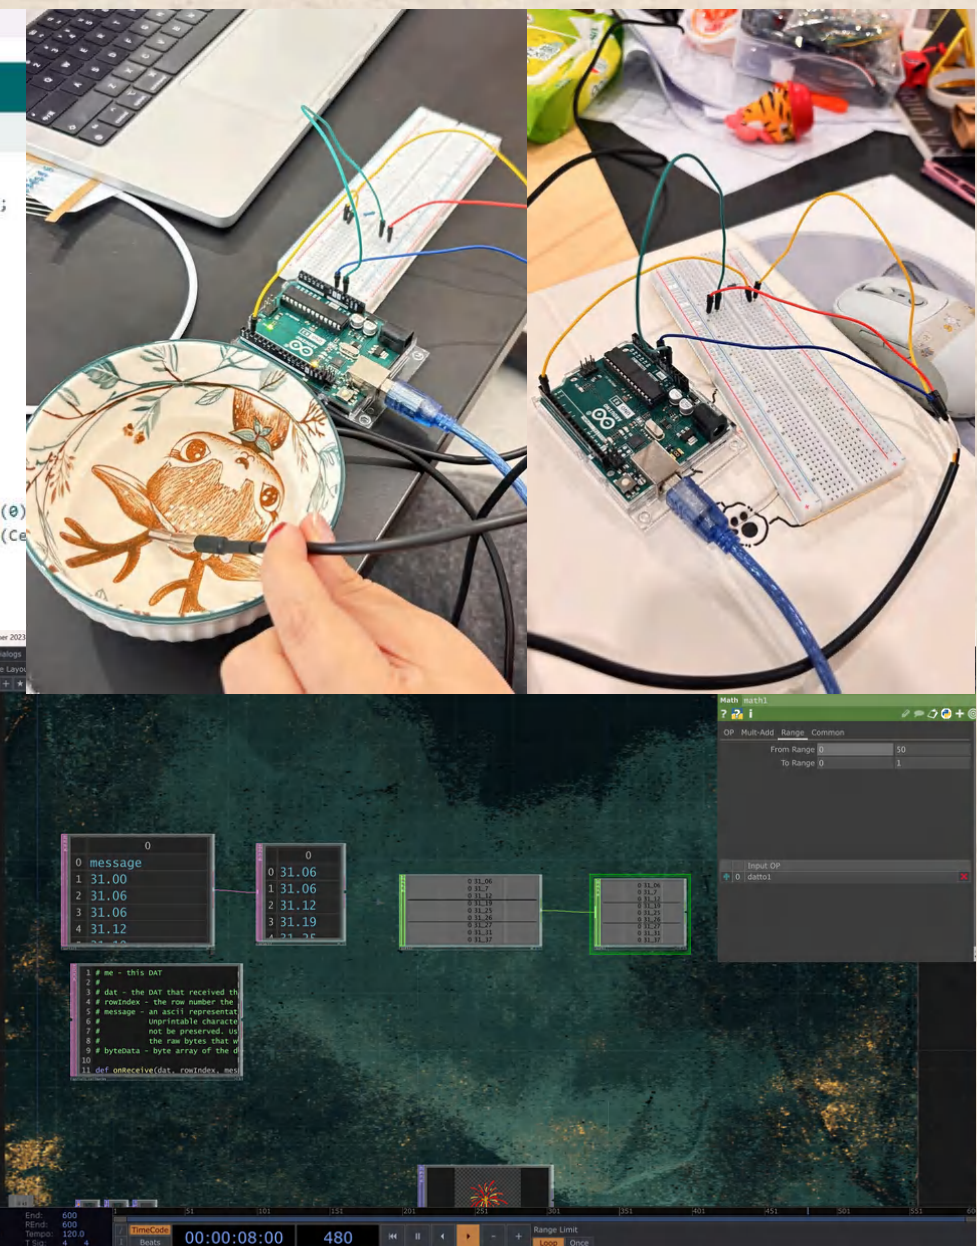

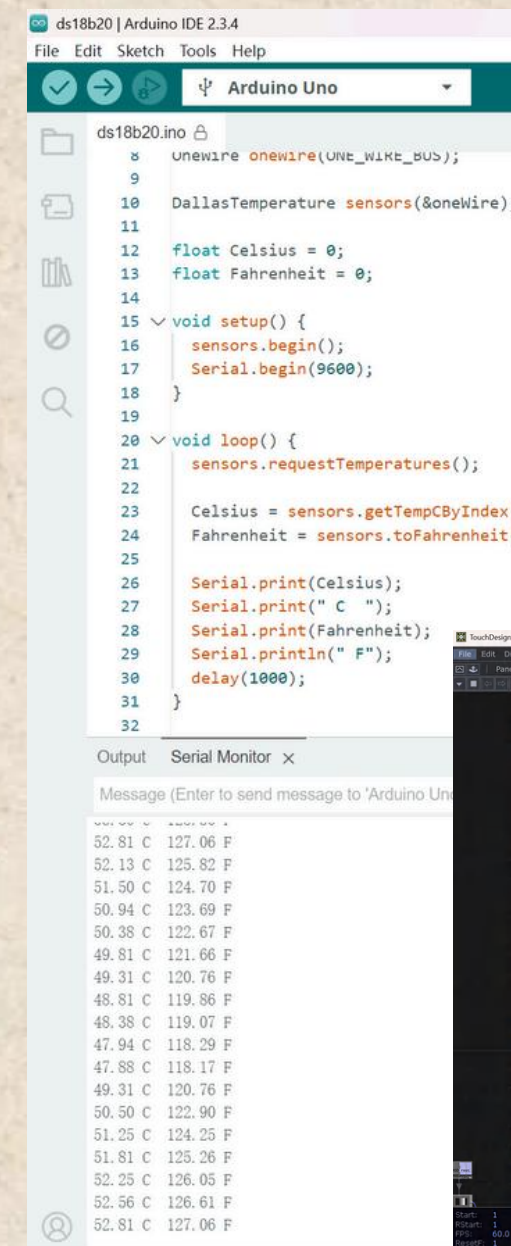

Background Cartoon

Hide the wires

Arduino Test

Final Output

THANKS FOR WATCHING

EMAIL: arianaincucn@163.com

TEL: 18200356345